One of the most daring highway rob beries that has been perpetrated in this city for years took place late Saturday night near the corner of Third street and Walker avenue. The victim, John Sawyer, a conductor on the West Side electric line. now lies at his home, 1928 North Third street, in a critical condition, and the attending physician has little hope for his recovery. Sawyer quit work Saturday might about 7 o'clock and went to the car barn on North Fifth street, and drew his wages for two weeks' work, and after paying his grocery bill started home. It was 11 o'clock when he passed the joint of Regers & Caldwell, at 1618 North Third street. He was accorted by two colored women who asked him for a nickle to buy a can of beer. He refused to give it to them and as he turned to go he was dealt a severe blow on the back of the head by two colored men who were standing near him. The blow staggered him and he made a dash at the men, when both of them jumped on him and beat him until he was unconscious. They then rifled his pockets and dragged him off the street into a vacant lot. The highwaymen got $17 and his watch. The unfortunate man was not discovered until about 3:20 o'clock yesterday morning, when Sawyer was found by some belated pedestrians who were going home. He was at once recog-man, and locked them up in the city jall. The police think they have the right parties. A state warrant will be issued for the men to-day. The police were busy all day yesterday looking for the two women and it is quite likely they will be arrested before many days.

Typothetae Also Says Shops Will Be Often if Order Continues Till November 22-May Assume National Importance.

At the meeting of Typographical Union, No. 80, yesterday representatives were present from all of the other unions connected with the printing trade and took part in the open meeting that was called first. The pressmen, stereotypers, feeders, mailers and other unions, through the delegates, agreed to stand with the printers in the boycott now on against the Hudson-Kimberly printing house. After the open meeting, when this was stated, the meeting of the union was held and the letter from the members of the Typothetae read, telling the union that the boycott on Hudson-Kimberly must be raised by November 22 or all job offices in the city would be made open. To this there was ordered a reply telling the officers of the Typothetae the boycott would not be raised by the time suggested. This makes a plain issue between the Allied Printing Trades' Unions and the employing printers who are members of the Typothetae, and unless one side changes front or backs down there must come a clash. The printers declare they will not lie down at this stage of the game; the employing printers are in a position where they must fight or admit they were bluffing. For the present week both sides will

It is claimed that only about half of the employing printers are members of the Typothetae, and that all of the employing printers have agreed to stand together it the fight, and if it is opened with both sides lined up it may prove to be a matter of vast importance to union labor. The moment there is a conflict between the two organizations the matter goes into the hands of the national organizations, and is the International Union railies to support the printers and the National Typothetas rallies to the support of the employing printers, there will be a battle royal fought out that will attract the attention of union labor everywhere. It was just such a conflict of authority as 'this that led up to the great strike at Pittsburg severa years ago. If the offices are made open t does not mean that all union printers will quit work in them unless there an attempt made to lower the scale which is not likely. Just what the printers will do if the offices are made open remains to be seen; that will be attended to when the occasion arises.

There is not the slightest hard feeling apparent over the matter on either side of the controversy, and it is not improbable that some plan may be evolved by which any great trouble will be averted. The printers do not believe that all of the big offices in the city will be opened.

the longing for this proud day that encourages the worshipers to renewed exertions, It is the visions in dim perspective of shafts of colored lights de mosiacs upon the pews that causes the widow to contribute her mite; it is the thought of the deep-toned organ and the glad hosannas to come that inspires the laborer to work overtime in the interest of the great cause.

For more than thirty years the congregation has worshiped upon this site. About twelve years ago the old church, which had stood there since the $\text{08}$, was razed, and the foundation of the present structure was laid. Then the funds were exhausted, and not until within the last few months was the erection of the superstructure attempted. Ever since 183 the congregation has worshiped in the basement, over which had been built a temporary roof, and services are still held there.

In this basement a strangely incongruous state of affairs exists. At the west end of the big, low-ceiled room stands a pulpit with an open Bible upon it, and upon the bare walls hang engravings of scenes in the Holy Land. This much is indicative of the religious services held there. But in front of the pulpit, an impromptu stage, with drop curtains and scenery and trapdoors, would indicate a Thespian temple, while in the pear, partitioned off from the main body of the room, a kitchen, fur-For more than thirty years the congre-nished with a range and other cooking tensils, speaks of the short order restaurant. As a matter of fact, the old basement is all this. Meals are served there every day to the men at work upon the walls and to the general public, and every two or three weeks a drama is played upon the stage, the proceeds of both enterprises going to the building fund. Sometimes the Thespians, in the hope of getting a larger house, produce their plays in some hall nearer the business center, as, for instance, next Friday evening they will give "Scrap of Faper" in Turner hall.

The installation of the present pastor. Rev. Samuel W. Bacote, B. D. which occurred March 1. 1881, gave a decided impetus to the energies of the Second Baptist church. At that time there was a debt of $400 contracted in the paying of the stream of the pulmore than ordinarily more than ordinarily in the best possible of keeping with their compaly. This rigid policy works a hardship upon the flock, but it does not complain. The individuals courageously wrack their brains to devise means of continuing the flow into the exchequer.

Some of these methods are lagenious. In the lobby of the basement hangs a notice to this effect:

"McKinley dinner, given by the ladles of the Golden Leaf Club." Possum and sweet airhed with a range and other cooking

Another notice reads like this:

The proceeds from this were $28.
Every month the church holds what is called a "money rally," which is a sort of a clearance day. Everybody hands in what he has collected, and the pastor reads off the names before the congregation, with a supplementary word of praise for the worthy. Sometimes, too, they have for the worthy. Sometimes, too, they have for the worthy. Mr. Hor-with broad aisles converging upon the carved chancel, there will be an ornate service of dedication in that little chapel such as Kansas City has never seen. It is the longing for this proud day that encourand inquired for the box. Mr. Horton expressed regrets that the man had not re-sponded more promptly and in as suave a manner as possible told him that he had been forced to bury the box.
"Why did you bury it?" the farmer

asked. "There was such an odor we were forced to do it, sir," said Mr. Horton, and he added, "the remains were in poor shape, sir, and we could not keep them longer." "Remains," exclaimed the astonished farmer, "the remains were buried at home;

The fight that has been going on between the brewers' combine and the outside brewers who want to do business in the city has brought about some benefits for the keepers of saloons. While the ironclad combine was on, if a saloonkeeper wa dissatisfied with the firm he had been doing business with, he had to stand it or submit to costly forfelts. Now it is dif-ferent and the brewers are anxious to please their purchasers. This is shown in many ways. When a brewery agent finds a customer sulking or becomes suspicious he at once calls on the party and asks to be allowed to do something for him. They can paint him a new sign, they can bright-en up the front of his place of business, they can exchange fixtures and give him a nicer lot, they can do many things and are exceedingly anxious to do it. The result can be seen as one rides about th city. There has never been a time in the history of the city when there were so many saloons with freshly painted fronts, new bars, new signs and other outside and inside attractions. Fronts that have long been dingy now blaze in fiery red, and great red, white and blue signs cover the bare space of dead walls. The saloon men are happy over the new order of things, the landlords are delighted to have their property bettered at no expense to themselves, and thus share the benefit of the war of the brewers. The outside beer is sold in many places and there is a stre rivalry between the outside and the local agents concerning the attractiveness of the signs furnished and the cheerfulness

There has been suich discord at the Leavenworth home for several years and it has been aired in the papers at regular intervals. Several attempts have been made to oust Governor A. J. Smith, of the home, but they have failed. It is under-stood that the feelings between Governor Smith and Major Shockley are not at all cordial and it is probable that at the inquiry an effort may be made to use the trouble now on hand as an excuse for the removal of Major Shockley.

W. J. Hamilton, of Dorsey, N. M., reached the city last evening with sixteen cars of fat cattle for the market this marning. He said last evening that shipments of stock from that country would be large and most of the stock will come to this city. Last evening at the Midland while talking polities Mr. Hamilton said that while most of the stockmen of that country were supporters of Bryan during the cam paign they were delighted with the opening of business since the McKinley triumph and were gradually beginning to see where they were wrong during the campaign and some had already admitted publicly they were glad of the result. He thinks Bryan and his ideas will be rubbed off the map by the prosperity that will come with the McKinley administration.

One of the best evidences of the revival of husiness and the increased activity in all lines of commerce is shown by the largely increased number of commercial men on the road. Topeka, Kas., Nov. 15.—(Special.) The names of five men have been mentioned for the postmastership of Kansas City, Kas., around Republican headquarters here. They are: J. L. Jones, the wholesals groceryman; Chief of Police O. K. Serviss; ex-Chief C. P. Denison, County Treasurer Ben Schnierle and Justice of the Peace J. T. Sims. The Republicans do not antici-pate any difficulty in getting rid of Fitz-hugh when the time comes if the sound noney Democrats do not succeed in get-ing his scalp before that time. They are till after him, but have run against an ilmost insurmountable object in the way of relationship. Fitzhugh has placed his case in the hands of Mrs. Wilson, wife of

Trouble This Time-Charged

With Highway Robbery. Jack Drew, the well known crook, who recently served a term in the Wyandotte ounty jail for stealing Justice H. M. Herr's watch last spring, is again behind he bars. This time it's for highway roberty, and his chances for going to Landing, the officers say, are exceedingly pright. He was released from jail about on days ago, since which time he has bright. He was released from fall about ten days ago, since which time he has been drinking and caronsing around Argentine. Saturday night he, in company with several others, made a round-up of the joints, drinking and having a good time. In their rounds they discovered William Perkins, a boilermaker, who had been working at the smeller, and had about $20, which he was spending. Perkins was not accustomed to drinking, and soon became so drunk he could scarcely walk. Drew started to take him home. This, Perkins says, is the last he knew until he woke up yesterday morning in a stall at Simmons says, is the last he knew until he woke up resterday morning in a stall at Simmons & Sons' livery stable, without money or sat. Perkins claims that a man by the name of O Brien saw Drew going through his peckets in front of a vacant building on Silver avenue soon after they left the toint. Perkins says that between 140 and 15 and a new Stetson hat were stolen from him. Drew was arrested early yeserilay morning in Kansas City, Mo., by others Kennety and Thoes, of the St. zous avenue rollice station, on information zous avenue rollice station, on information Louis avenue police station, on information of the Argentine police, and is now locked up at police station No. I awaiting the Kansas officials to take him back for trial. Drew is one of the toughest individuals in the state, and has escaped the state.
